

There were definitely more smiles and laughter than usual at Boston Children's Hospital one Wednesday afternoon in September thanks to our favorite Boston Celtic, Marcus Smart!

It's crazy to see these kids smile and be so full of life when they have every reason to be down. The kids here at Boston Children's Hospital help remind me that no matter what's going on in life – smile and keep pushing.

Anyone who truly knows me knows that this is more than an obligation – it's personal. I understand what families are going through. My family is a victim of this disease we call cancer and the YounGameChanger Foundation is more than proud to be a part of the solution to finding a cure.
